UP TO COURT IF FILIPINOS SHALL BE U. S. CITIZENS

But Philadelphia Court Adjudged Brown Brothers Not Within Meaning of Law

Whether or not Filipinos are precluded from citizenship by section 2169 of the Revised Statutes, which reads, "The provisions of this title shall apply to aliens being free white persons and to persons of African nativity and to persons of African descent," is a question which can be authoritatively determined only by the courts, according to a letter which has been received from the bureau of naturalization of the department of labor by the local federal court. The letter is in response to a report from the clerk's office showing that, during last September, declarations were filed here by 21 persons born in the Philippines.

"The bureau," says the letter, "is not advised whether your court has determined the question, and for that reason attention is invited to the enclosed copy of the decision of the U. S. district court at Philadelphia in the case of Alverto, 198 Fed., 683."

Briefly, the decision referred to denied the application for citizenship of a Filipino named Alverto. The petitioner's father, who was a Spaniard, was born in the Philippines and was a Spanish subject prior to the cession of the Philippines to the United States.

The decision concludes as follows: "I am therefore of the opinion that Congress did not intend to extend the privilege of citizenship to those who had become citizens of the Philippines under the act of 1902, unless they were free white persons or of African nativity or descent."

Clerk Foster L. Davis says that since 1906 only two petitions for naturalization have been filed in the local federal court by Filipinos. One of these was by Paulito Natto and the other by a Filipino named Rondon. The Rondon case was dismissed for want of prosecution. Natto was admitted.

In admitting Natto, says Davis, the court relied on 12 opinions from the attorney-general, which were to the general effect that Filipinos come within the meaning of the naturalization law. No protests against the admission of Natto were made by the district attorney, says the clerk.

Carden Explains Details of New Road Regulations

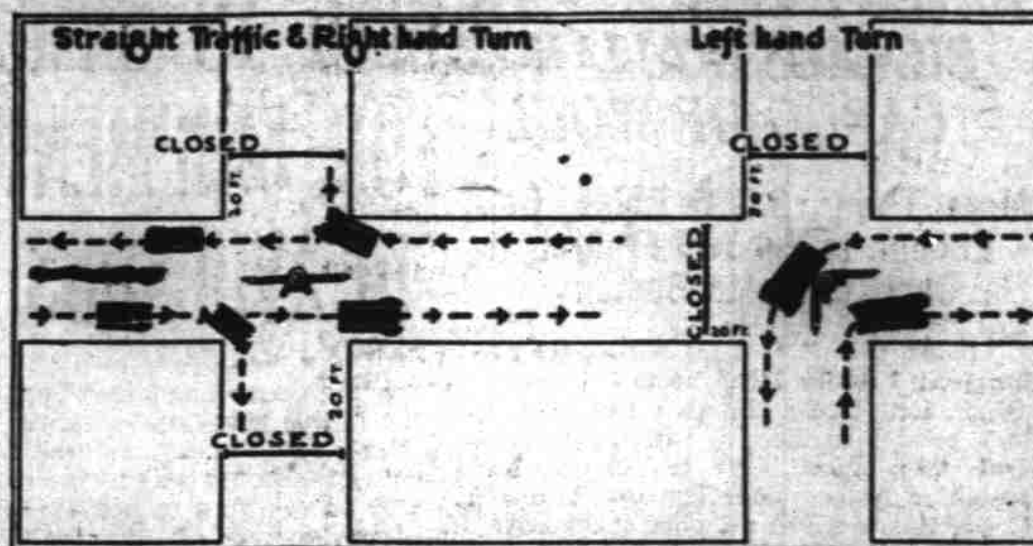

Diagram showing by pointing of arrows the directions in which traffic may move under the directions of the arms of the traffic policeman.

Assistant City Attorney W. T. Carden, director of the police school and instigator of the new traffic signals, gave the Star-Bulletin today the "correct dope" on the new signals. Here it is:

When an officer has his arms outstretched along the line of a street that street is open for traffic along it in a straight line.

It is open also for vehicles traveling the line of that street which are to make a right-hand turn into the closed street. And a vehicle traveling the open street may make a right-hand turn into the closed street without any additional signal from the officer.

The street across which the officer's arms are stretched at right angles is closed to vehicles traveling on it, and no vehicle on it shall move into the open street, either to turn into it or cross it.

All left-hand turns are to be made on signal from the traffic officer. The driver wanting to make a left-hand turn shall wait until the officer has one arm pointing along the line of the street he is traveling and toward his vehicle, and the other arm pointing along the street he is to turn into. On this signal two left-hand turns are open.

Whenever there is much traffic, traffic officers will give the signal for the left-hand turn by blowing one whistle.

The diagram above explains the two signals, which are all that are given under the new rules.

Two Whistles Mean Go Ahead. When an officer blows one whistle all traffic must stop except the vehicle to which he points. When the officer blows two whistles traffic is open again on the streets down which his arms point.

Important points of the law which drivers do not understand are:

A plainly visible signal must be made long enough before a driver makes a turn to give the officer time to give the return signal. Drivers frequently make this signal just before the turn, and this has led to many accidents.

A vehicle cannot be left standing within 20 feet of a curb, in front of the entrance of any public building, within 10 feet of a fire hydrant or in front of any public resort.

No vehicle may approach within 10 feet of the rear or front of any street car which has stopped to take on or let off passengers. An automobile cannot under any circumstances pass a street car which has stopped.

At a crossing where there is no traffic officer every vehicle has the right of way over everybody approaching from the left, and must give the right of way to everybody approaching from the right.

A vehicle cannot follow so close to another that it has not room to turn out or stop if the other car comes suddenly to a stop.

When closely followed by another vehicle going at a higher rate of speed, a vehicle cannot change its course until the other vehicle has passed it.

Everybody shall keep on the right side of the road and reasonably close to the right-hand curb.

Speed limit turning a corner is 8 miles an hour.

Speed limit crossing an intersection is 15 miles an hour.

TWELVE OF GUARD COMPANIES WILL MARCH IN REVIEW

Twelve companies of the National Guard of Hawaii with the auxiliary companies, which are the hospital corps and the engineers, will be in line Sunday when Governor Lucius E. Pinkham, Brigadier-General Samuel I. Johnson and Lieut. W. C. Whitener, U. S. A., will review the troops. The formation of the regiment is to begin at 1:30 and the review will follow immediately.

Governor Pinkham, General Johnson and Lieut. Whitener will occupy a stand in the Capitol grounds at the corner of Richards and King streets. The troops will form on Merchant street with the right resting near the Opera House, and will pass through the Judiciary building grounds back of the statue of King Kamehameha in column of squads and turn into King street. After turning into King street and executing the second change of direction, a column of platoons will be formed and the guardsmen will pass the reviewing stand in this formation. The regiment will turn up Richards street after passing the stand and will march to the armory.

The original plan to have the review in Kapiolani Park was changed because of the expense it would have entailed, the total cost of transporting the men being estimated at about $100. It was found impossible to hold the review in the Capitol grounds, because the Oahu troops are now too large a body to drill there and the present plan was adopted.

Governor Pinkham will address the men some time before or after the review Sunday, and will also speak to them Saturday night when the non-commissioned officers will hold their smoker in honor of the rifle team.

SHERIFF ROSE SAYS PAULO NEVER DRANK

According to Sheriff Rose, Paulo, a famed character here 10 years ago, never used liquor, and the statement made in a local paper that he died from "bad booze" is entirely incorrect. "Paulo was a unique character," said the sheriff. "He was blind, and at times irascible, but I never knew him to drink. My mother took care of him until the day he died and I knew him intimately for years and in all that time never knew him to drink. Paulo achieved fame by imitating boat whistles. On pipes which he made of bamboo he could blow an exact imitation of the whistle of any boat that came into the harbor here, and when the double whistles began to be used he fashioned a new kind of reed that exactly imitated these. Paulo died at my mother's home after many years' residence in Honolulu."

MOUNTAIN KING MAKING MONEY AT FAST RATE

With more than $17,000 in the treasury the Mountain King Mining Company, much of the stock of which is held in Honolulu, was in a position to clear all old debts, and have a $5000 surplus on hand, according to a report made at the end of October. The cash on hand includes sufficient to repay to the shareholders the $12,500 due them for cash advanced to the old company.

October was a prosperous month at the mine. Twenty stamps were kept dropping for 28 days and 18 hours and crushed a total of 2840 tons of ore which averaged $7.09 per ton and yielded a gross return of $20,107.20. All October expenses, including new development work, totaled only $4486.60, leaving a profit balance for the month of $15,620.60.

The value of the gold produced in the United States from 1793 to January 1, 1914, is estimated by the United States Geological Survey at $3,549,899,400; the value of silver at $1,709,517,900.
